

We then applied the Augmented Dickey-Fuller test to all 42 variables. The result is clear: only 3 variables out of 42 are stationary in levels, but from the first difference all 42 variables become stationary.